BOOKER GLIDING CLUB TEMPORARY BASE

There has been gliding at Wycombe Air Park for 70 years, but since February 2021 Booker Gliding Club has been prevented from flying there because of a commercial dispute between the airfield management and the airfield owner. We therefore flew at Chiltern Park Aerodrome during the summer of 2021 and welcomed many visitors for trial lessons and courses.

Chiltern Park Aerodrome closed on 19th September 2021 because the lease had ended, so Booker Gliding Club had to find another temporary base while the legal action back at Wycombe continues. It is our intention to return to our historical base but in the meantime we have moved to Abingdon Airfield.

TIMETABLE

Abingdon Airfield was turned into a training base some years ago and is home to two Army regiments. In order to fly there we must complete formalities in order to turn it back into an airfield and meet military standards. This process has been more complex than we expected, so there has been some delay in resuming flying.

BOOKINGS

Once we have confirmed procedures and ensured that all our instructors are familiar with them, we will open our booking system to allow customers with vouchers to book flights. We expect this to be in February or March.
